On Lag Ba'omer, at Meron, the burial place of Rabbi Shimon bar Yochai and his son, Rabbi Elazar b'Rabbi Shimon, tens of thousands of Jews gather to celebrate on the "Yahrtzeit," the anniversary of the death of the "godly Tanna," the great scholar who lived in the immediate aftermath of the Second Temple. With torches, song and feasting, the Yahrtzeit is celebrated, which may seem somewhat odd, but which was a specific request by Bar Yochai of his students.				* Please note that candle lighting times during daylight savings time are for those who bring in Shabbat at "regular time."
